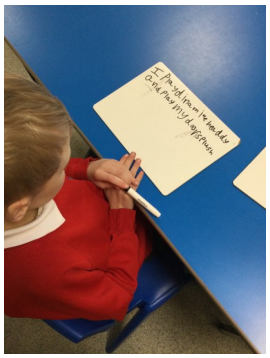
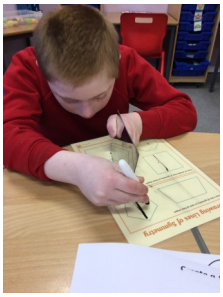
Foxes Class Weekly Blog

Week Commencing: Monday 23rd January 2023




Day	What we have done today
Monday	We began our week by exploring acrostic poems. We explored different themes but focused on SNOW to begin this week. In maths, we explored symmetry. This is our focus all of this week. In PE, we focused on different, controlled jumps as part of our gymnastics.
Tuesday	Today, we used our knowledge similes and alliteration to help develop our own acrostic poems. In maths, we continued with symmetry and applied our knowledge to pictorial representations. During the afternoon, we were very excited to celebrate Chinese New Year and then focused on French - Going to a French Bakery and making requests, in French.
Wednesday	An opportunity to develop our own acrostic poem about one of our favourite things. We came up with lots of lovely ideas. In maths, we used our symmetry knowledge to create our own tessellating patterns. During the afternoon, we took a trip across Europe to explore lots of different landmarks. We chose our own landmark to create a fact file.
Thursday	A busy day today. We worked on rhythm and pitch in music, explored being a good friend and being kind to others and during the afternoon, we role played the planets orbit around the sun, using props.
Friday	The morning we began with our weekly spelling challenge and then we continued to focused on Van Gogh and Van Gogh's Starry Night painting. We explored printing to create our own Starry Night's. Choice time during the afternoon.
